returned for violating some rule, and I don't know what this arrangement is. You all know on the Appropriations Committee so I'm flying blind. It's not in the interest of the school to say a child should be returned, is it, because that would show up bad on their recidivism statistics, wouldn't it?

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: Well, I think the recidivism has to do with their doing the same act or doing some criminal act that would cause them to come back into the facility, but I am certain that this would be monitored by Health and Human Services and by Kearney to determine, and I'm certain also that...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: But I don't want you to take all the time.

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: Oh, okay.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: How...how is HHS going to monitor it other than through this school, the private entity?

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: Well, they're going to review, I am certain, what...what is going on out there at Brown School. They don't just turn it loose. They would have...they would have reports and they would have people on the grounds to see what's going on. In fact, Senator Dwite Pedersen told me he was going to go out there and make certain...

SENATOR CHAMBERS: No.

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: ...what was going on.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: No, I don't mean at the school. I mean aftercare when the child has left the school. This aftercare takes place after the child leaves the camp.

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: Yes.

SENATOR CHAMBERS: So who's going to have the say-so of that child, the state or this private outfit?

SENATOR D. PEDERSON: The Brown School continues during the...during the follow-up treatment themselves.
